Here, only the swift shall triumph.

DESCRIPTION-

The event comprises of three rounds, each round challenging the intellectual mettle of the participants. The first round will be a general quiz round, with topics that can range from literature, to music. The questions that a team will get will be chosen by a wheel of fortune.

The teams which qualify that round will get to participate in the second round, which will be a technical quiz. This round will force the students to put their thinking caps on, while answering questions on engineering concepts.

The winners of that round will proceed to the final round, which is a circuit assembly round. In this round, the teams will get a problem for which they would have to make the electronic circuit. This requires a highly analytical mind and the ability to think on your feet. The first team to make the correct circuit would be declared as the ultimate champion.
